

Constitution of the Arab Republic of Egypt

1971 /11 /9

Chapter Three:

Public Freedoms, Rights and Duties

Article (40)

All citizens are equal before the law. They have equal public rights and duties without discrimination due to sex, ethnic origin, language, religion or creed.

Article (43)

Any medical or scientific experiment may not be performed on any person without his free consent.

Article (49)

The State shall guarantee for citizens the freedom of scientific research and literary, artistic and cultural creativity and provide the necessary means for encouraging their realization.