Welcome to the fourth annual 25 Black Marylanders to Watch. Each Sunday in the month of February, The Baltimore Sun will showcase a selection of winners and their stories. This year's honorees include up-and-comers, established voices and people making marks in new careers. Each of them brings something special to the conversation. The honorees were chosen by The Sun's editors and reporters, who cover these topics and communities and see the progress these individuals are making in their fields.
